

Cultural and artistic achievements

During the 2023-2024 Lankaran State University to honor students and staff for their exceptional contributions to arts and local/national culture. These recognitions spanned across multiple disciplines, including music performance, traditional and contemporary dance, painting, sculpture, theatrical productions, and various forms of creative design.

Our students regularly participate in competitions and events. They win various prizes and certificates.

List of students for active participation in the event dedicated to the 530th anniversary of Muhammad Fuzuli:

Shahmarova Jala - 3rd year student of History teaching

Ibrahimzadeh Fatima – 4th year student of Music teaching

Asadov Elnur –2nd year student of Music teaching

Aliyev Tahir- 4th year student of Music teaching

Talishinskaya Mirraciyexanim- 4th year student of Music teaching

The recipients demonstrated remarkable skill and dedication to preserving and promoting cultural heritage, as well as contributing innovative artistic expressions. For example, students participating in national art competitions were recognized for their detailed depictions of local landscapes and cultural symbols, while faculty members leading theatrical performances showcasing regional folklore received commendations.

Azerbaijani culture is firmly ingrained in the area, and Lankaran State University stresses the value of conserving and advancing it. The University frequently organizes performances, exhibitions, and cultural events that showcase the rich history, customs, and folk arts of the nation.

Through student writing organizations, literary events, and the publication of student works, Lankaran State University encourages literary endeavors. Regular creative writing competitions and workshops inspire students to experiment with prose, poetry, and other literary genres. Additionally, LSU has helped publish regional literary publications and magazines that showcase the literary work of its staff and students.

Art Competition Winners:

Zaidova Tarana – 1st year student of Methods and methodology of Fine Arts teaching

Abbaszadeh Ali - 1st year student of Methods and methodology of Fine Arts teaching

Rzayev Vusal – 2nd year student Fine Arts teaching

Sadiqova Nazrin –4th year student Fine Arts teaching

Additionally, several awards were given to individuals who excelled in inter-university cultural festivals, regional exhibitions, and collaborative projects focusing on Azerbaijani cultural traditions. These awards were not only a reflection of personal achievement but also reinforced the university's commitment to fostering a vibrant cultural environment and supporting artistic endeavors that bridge historical significance and modern creativity.

Students at LSU are encouraged to take part in a variety of national and international cultural festivals. Traditional Azerbaijani literature, dancing, music, and other artistic expressions are frequently showcased during these gatherings. Students demonstrate their talents and have a greater understanding of their cultural heritage through these activities.

LSU frequently has art shows that feature creations by teachers, students, and neighborhood artists. Painting, sculpture, and photography are just a few of the many visual arts that are featured in these exhibitions. Students can also learn from experts in the industry through workshops and masterclasses with well-known artists.

The cultural and creative life of Azerbaijan, especially in its southern parts, has benefited greatly from Lankaran State University's contributions. LSU continues to create a creative and culturally rich environment for its students and the surrounding community through a variety of academic programs, student participation, community involvement, and international collaboration. Through this initiative, Lankaran State University reaffirmed its role as a hub for nurturing artistic talent and promoting the preservation of national and local cultural identity.