

Museums at Lankaran State University

In the 2005/2006 academic year, the Heydar Aliyev Ideological Center at Lankaran State University operated regularly, meetings and gatherings of the University staff related to ideological work were held at this center no less than once a month, and in general, it was organized at a high level regarding the days and events dear to our republic and our people. conferences and seminars were held. The university team has repeatedly declared its loyalty to Heydar Aliyev's ideology and his political line, and expressed its wholehearted support for the activities of Mr. Ilham Aliyev, who continues this political course with great success and determination.

For this purpose and with the desire of the university staff, it was decided to organize "Heydar Aliyev Museum and Management School" at Lankaran State University. Since the previous small room was not enough for this, a large hall in the best part of the University was perfectly renovated, appropriate furniture with a modern design necessary for this hall, a stent, and a showcase were purchased, and the exhibits related to the great leader were collected.

This museum, named after the great leader Heydar Aliyev, is very dear to the teachers and students of Lankaran State University as well as to every Azerbaijani. The great leader visited Lankaran and this region many times, paid special attention to the development of this region, and said that Lankaran State University is not only a center of science and education, but also a great cultural center of the region.

President of Azerbaijan Ilham Aliyev, who developed his policy with great success and creativity, turned his developing country into the most dynamically developing country in the world. Thanks to his efforts, many enterprises, sports complexes, treatment centers were opened in all parts of our country, especially in this region, and new schools were built.

The museum briefly demonstrates exactly what we said, the life of the great leader, the path of struggle and action, and the successful and determined continuation of this path today.

Today, this museum named after Heydar Aliyev, operating in the University, is also a sign of gratitude to the dear memory of the great leader of our teachers and students. The operation of the museum together with the Heydar Aliyev School of Management increases its duties and responsibilities, and opens up new opportunities for the University to play a high role in the social and political life of our country.

Lankaran State University History and Local Studies Museum is an institution of cultural and educational purpose organized in the city of Lankaran, Azerbaijan. It represents the rich historical, cultural, and local heritage of the Lankaran region. It is an important means for the education of students and the public regarding the history, traditions, and events that have taken place in this region.

In the Museum of History and Local Studies of Lankaran State University, ancient dishes and other household items occupy a large place. Among the exhibits of the museum are valuable items from different periods. These pots are made with remarkable dyeing techniques and retain their colors for many years. The museum also exhibits silver ornaments, ancient belts, perfume containers and handicrafts of local artisans, reflecting the rich culture and folk crafts of the Lankaran region. These examples reflect historical heritage and folk culture.

It has different types of exhibits that may also include artifacts, photos, documents, and other materials of local history, archaeology, ethnography, and the development of Lankaran as a region. In these, one can find the historical milestones of the area, from ancient times to more modern ones.

Lankaran itself is a very historic city, and thus the museum reflects this in its aim to illustrate the development of the region and its surroundings. It would not be out of place to think that the museum also includes aspects on the establishment and development of Lankaran State University as such, in addition to the general cultural and natural history.
